

STATE SOVEREIGNTY, FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS, MIGRATIONS: THE ELEMENTS OF A CONTRADICTION

Migrations are a big problem for the States. Under the point of view of International Law, two principles come in conflict: the principle of absolute sovereignty and the principle of freedom of letting the own country. The article proposes an interpretation limiting the extension of sovereignty, because of the validity of the human rights principle described above